DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

DATES TO FEBRUARY 22.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—In the House, under a call of the States, bills and joint resolutions were introduced and referred. None were of general importance.

Williams introduced a joint resolution granting the right of way to the Memphis and El Paso Pacific railroad. After some opposition, the previous question was ordered and the resolution passed, ayes, 10; noes, 22.

Schenck called up his bill to strengthen the public credit, relating to contracts for the payment of coin. He moved to suspend the rules and limit debate to two hours.

Schofield called attention to the pressing necessity for the passing of appropriation bills, several of which are still pending. The Speaker added that there were seven privileged reports from Committees to be made, some of which would give rise to debate. The House refused to suspend the rules.

Schenck moved to limit the debate to one hour. The House again refused to suspend the rules, and then went into Committee of the Whole on the Postoffice appropriation bill. After some time passed in consideration, the committee rose and reported the bill to the House. Several amendments adopted in the committee were rejected by the House. All the amendments reducing the appropriation were agreed to, amounting to a reduction of about a million dollars from the original bill. The bill then passed and the House took a recess. The House, at the evening session, went into committee on the Senate amendment to the naval appropriation bill, making several reductions in minor appropriations. The Senate amendments were concurred in and the bill was then laid aside.

The legislative appropriation bill was taken up. The amendment striking out appropriations for newspapers and stationery for members and for the public printing, was rejected.

Peters moved an amendment to increase the salary of the President to $40,000. It was rejected, there being only ten affirmative votes.

The House adjourned.

The Senate met at noon and adjourned till 7 o'clock.

On motion, Sherman's bill to repeal the tenure-of-office bill was postponed.

The currency bill, as amended by the House, was taken up. Sherman moved to non concur and ask a Committee of Conference, but finally allowed the bill to pass until there shall be a larger attendance.

Anthony reported the House resolution, forbidding the further purchase of stationery from Dempsey & Ottole, which passed.

Sherman renewed his motion concerning the currency bill.

The Senate refused to concur in the House amendment and aked a Committee of Conference in the Senate.

The bill to regulate the appraisement and collection of duties on imports, was discussed, pending which the constitutional amendment was taken up.

On motion of Stewart, who moved for non-concurrence in the House amendments, Buckalew supported the motion. Warren moved to concur. Sherman, Morgan and Cameron were appointed the Committee of Conference.

The currency bill and constitutional amendment were briefly discussed and postponed for the supplemental bill to the act authorizing the construction of a lateral branch of the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad, which passed.

The Senate adjourned.

Washington News.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says Grant has become more communicative. He expressed himself on Saturday to an intimate friend very freely in regard to the composition of his Cabinet, saying that he would invite civilians to fill all the Cabinet positions. "If my selections shall not prove judicious in the first instance," said he, "I shall feel justified in correcting mistakes by making second or third selections if necessary."

A letter book of Gen. Halleck's has been found containing all the correspondence on the subject of the removal of Grant when at Vicksburg, including an order for his removal. The order was signed by Halleck, but was inspired by Stanton, who at that time directed all the correspondence of Halleck. Gen. Banks' friends are urging him to give all the papers in his possession on the subject to the public, but he still refuses to do so.

Senator Saulsbury fell from his carriage yesterday and broke his leg.

CHICAGO, Feb. 22.—The Tribune's special says the Senators from the Pacific slope oppose the San Juan boundary treaty. They consider the former treaty explicit and that we should go to war rather than admit the claim on which this treaty is based.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A caucus of Republican Senators was held to day to consider the question of the repeal of the Tenure of Office law. Several members oppose its repeal.

Frelinghuysen favored its suspension for four years.

Morton, Roberts and others desired its immediate repeal and insisted that the subject cannot properly be decided in caucus, intimating that they would not abide by its decision. The caucus remained in session till half past three, when less than half the Republican Senators were present. In a vote to postpone the consideration of the question of repeal till after the 4th of March, twenty-two voted in the affirmative, the other members refused to vote and announced their intention not to be bound by the action of the caucus.

The President sent in his veto to the Copper Tariff bill to day. He objects generally to the operation of the bill, and that it would diminish the public receipts and prohibit the importation of copper and greatly increase the price of blue vitriol.

The Mayor and Common Council of Baltimore waited on the President to day, and presented a resolution of the City Council, tendering the hospitalities of Baltimore during Johnson's passage through that city, on his return to Nashville. The President expressed his thanks for the compliment and accepted the invitation. He said he would designate a day at some future time.

From Cuba

HAVANA, Feb. 21.—The seventh battalion of volunteers, which forms a portion of the regular garrison of the city, yesterday sent a deputation to Gen. Dulce demanding that vigorous measures be resorted to against the rebels. When relieved from duty the soldiers made a demonstration which caused great excitement. To day the agitation was renewed and the volunteers sent another committee to General Dulce, reiterating their demand for severe measures. He replied firmly that he could not permit any interference with the political or military plans of the Government, but has resolved to effect the pacification of the island within the limits of the law. In this determination he stands firm. Troops continued to arrive from Spain.

The Army of the Potomac

NEW YORK, Feb 22.—A preliminary meeting of the Army of the Potomac was held to day and largely attended. It included Generals McClellan, Heintzleman, Butterfield, Sickles, Slocum, Franklin, Seigel, Wright, Ingalls, Newton, Gibbon, French, Pleasanton and others. They resolved to hold a grand re-union in New York on the 4th of July.

The Sun, which is as much as to say Mr. Charles A. Dana, scouts the whole story about the supersedure of General Grant by General Banks, in 1863. The Sun says: "It had been desired to place a new officer in the command of the army of the Tennessee, certainly Banks was not the one whom Mr. Lincoln or Mr. Stanton would have chosen for the duty." But it adds that Mr. Lincoln strongly favored a union of the two armies under Banks and Grant, that his wish was known to both these generals, who corresponded about it, and that it was distinctly understood that Grant was to command the consolidated forces. Out of this fact the recent story may have grown.

Dr. Hall says: "It will be much better for many people to take a little lime and sugar instead of supper at night. We know many who have done this for years, but they add a 'little something' to vary the compound.

Sane and Insane

The feature which most distinguishes modern from ancient civilization is the treatment of the unfortunate classes. And there is no better test of the progress of Christian civilization than the improvements which have been made in this direction within the last hundred years. Much less than a century ago insane persons were regarded as the subjects of demoniacal possession. They were the objects of shocking cruelties, which sprung from fear. The madhouses were hells on earth. Bedlam was one of the sights of London. Straw and darkness, chains and whips, were the chief remedies administered to minds diseased, and these by brutal and vulgar keepers of the rank of turnkeys. Less than a century ago it is on record that the famous slave trader turned divine, John Newton, as well as Cowper the poet, believed the lunacy of the latter to be the effect of diabolical agency permitted by Providence for a time and for a special purpose.

About that very time, however, a better day had dawned. Dr. Charles Cotton, himself a minor poet of some merit, was almost, if not quite, the first to treat lunatics on humane and philosophical principles. It was to his skill that Cowper owed his partial restoration, and that the world owes his charming poems and still more charming letters. The madness of George III. brought the Quaker doctor, Willis, to public notice, and drew general attention to his system for the treatment of this terrible disease. A disease terrible indeed, but yet one of the most treatable, if taken in season. It was at the time of the French Revolution that this application of science to humanity was made in France. And it was in the very hight of the Reign of Terror that the experiment was first tried of taking off the chains from the most furious maniacs, and mitigating their madness by ameliorating their condition, and using kindness and humanity instead of fear and force as the methods of their treatment. Much, indeed, of the improvement in the management of the insane is due to the enlightened skill of the French physicians.

Since the beginning of this century great advances have been made in the science of the cure or alleviation of insanity. And we are quite as far advanced in this country as in Europe in this particular. And we believe that there are fewer abuses connected with this branch of therapeutics here than there. For there are much fewer private madhouses in the United States than in Europe. The insane of all conditions are, as a general thing, treated in public institutions, subject to regular visitation and constant supervision from without and above. Of course, there is much less danger of these being perverted into the instruments of private selfishness or malice than establishments more removed from constant inspection. Shocking abuses in this kind were found to exist in the private madhouses in England before Lord Brougham instituted an inquiry into their conduct and obtained legal supervision and personal responsibility for them. Cases still occasionally come to light which show that the cure has not yet gone to the bottom of the mischief.

That such cases may occur in our own institutions occasionally is not impossible. But that they happen frequently is most unlikely. Persons unacquainted with the characteristics of the disease may without difficulty be persuaded that an insane person is sane. For the symptoms are often carefully concealed through the very morbid skill of the patient himself. And insanity is well known to coexist with great powers of mind. Cowper, for instance, for nearly forty years, suf*fered under the delusion that all the misery which* had ever existed in the world was owing to the wrath of God at his own sins; and that he would drop into hell the moment he died. Under this delusion he three times attempted suicide. And while thus suffering he wrote the poems which will be the delight of the English speaking race as long as the language endures. And one of the most powerful, as it is the most dreadful, of his minor poems—"The Castaway"—was written shortly before his death, when plunged in the very abyss of moody madness. And a learned foreigner, recently deceased, composed laborious works, requiring great skill and exactness, while an inmate of an insane asylum, and an unquestionably proper inmate of it.

But while a common observer might easily be made to believe that a lunatic is a sane person, it is next to impossible that a trained observer dealing habitually and scientifically with diseased minds, should mistake the sane person for a lunatic. If there be cases of sane persons detained in asylums to subserve private ends, it must needs be that the physician in charge is an accomplice in the crime. To make this probable some sufficient inducement must be shown. In private madhouses, kept by the class of persons who often kept them in England, the motive of high pay might easily be supposed to operate. But in our public institutions the pay of the superintendent is in no way affected by the number of patients, while his work is very materially increased, and especially if he have to deal with a sane man. He could have no inducement to commit so grave a crime, at the constant risk of detection and ruin, unless we suppose the very improbable one of bribery and corruption. But, while we think that the panics which occasionally prevail as to the danger of being shut up in a madhouse while sane are to be classed with the fears of being buried alive or murdered to supply subjects for the dissecting-table, we do opine that some more careful provision should be made by law for ascertaining the mental condition of a patient before committing him to an asylum. We believe that, almost everywhere, the certificate of one or at most two physicians is all that is necessary for this purpose. Now though it is most improbable that men of the rank and character of the superintendents of our asylums should be bribed to keep a sane man in confinement, it is by no means impossible that doctors might be found to commit him to him for a consideration. This may be and should be guarded against by law and on another occasion, perhaps, we will state how we think it may be done.—Independent.

The Colossus of Rhodes

Tradition has it as is well known that at the entrance to the port of Rhodes there was standing a gigantic statue of Apollo, with outstretched legs, one foot resting on a lower mole, and the other on a higher, holding a bow in one hand, and in the other, raised high above his head, an immense basin, in which a large fire was constantly maintained. The size of the statue, report added, was so colossal that the largest vessel could easily pass between the legs.

The facts unfortunately are, that the Colossus of Rhodes never served as a light house and that vessels never passed beneath it into the harbor.

The whole story rests upon the highly romantic account found in a very indifferent compiler of the seventeenth century, who for the first time mentions the Colossus as serving as a light house but carefully abstains from giving his authority for the statement. Another writer of even less judgment, a translator of Philostrate, added subsequently the story of the vessels passing between the outstretched legs of the statue. This author also, is discreetly silent as to the source from which he has derived his information.

What, then, is the truth about the Colossus? There is no lack of reliable statements concerning the statue. Strabo quotes a fragment of an epigram in Iambic verses in which the name of the architect, Chares, from Lindos, and two on the island of Rhodes, and the dimensions of the great work, seventy yards in height, are both mentioned. He adds that the Colossus was in his day lying on the ground, having been overthrown by a fearful earthquake, which destroyed a large portion of the city. "The Rhodians," he says, "dared not raise it again, warned by an oracle, and that is literally all the illustrious geographer seems to have learned about the Colossus." Pliny, however, gives us additional and interesting details. "The statue," he says, "fell fifty six years after its erection, but although thrown down it is still a marvel. Few men are able with their arms to span its thumb; its fingers are larger than most of our statues. Its distorted limbs form vast caverns, and in the inside are yet to be seen enormous masses of stone, by means of which [illegible] was balanced [illegible]. Twelve years, [illegible] a sum which the [illegible] derived from the sale of instruments of war left by Demetrius before their city when he abandoned the siege in despair." A clever engineer of the third century before Christ [illegible] Byzantium [illegible] author who gives in his interesting work on the Seven Wonders of the World—[illegible] a still more detailed description of the statue [illegible] as has been seen, not one of these writers speaks either of a light-house or of the marvelous fact that ships could have sailed beneath the Colossus.

For nine hundred years the gigantic limbs remained lying near the entrance of the harbor, the pride of the inhabitants and the wonder of travelers. In 672, however, the Arabs came in the rapture of their first successes, to Rhodes also, and their General, one of Othman's Lieutenants, caused the pieces to be cut up, and sold the metal to a Jew, who is said to have loaded nine hundred camels with the precious burden. Thus every trace was lost of the far famed statue, and even the name of the artist was long lost, although "he had made a god like unto a god and given a second sun to the world."—M. Schele De Vere, in Hearth's Magazine.

"Richard III." Remodeled

There is a bit of dramatic and literary gossip which would reach you from New York in due time, but which may properly be forestalled in a letter from Boston. Those of your readers who saw Edwin Booth as Richard III., during his recent visit to Chicago—who heard him say:

"See how my sword weeps for the poor King's death," and saw him, with malignant ferocity admirably counterfeited, stab the prostrate form of King Henry again and again, who heard him in the last act parley with Richmond before the desperate fight, and say:

"I hate thee, Harry, for thy blood of Lancaster," and so forth, will never enjoy these points again. Booth, with the opening of his new theater, in New York, will turn over a new leaf in his production of "Richard III." He will discard almost altogether the Cibber version, which has held the stage for a century or more, in which Garrick and Cooke, and Bean and his own father won their greatest triumphs—in which he himself has achieved some of his best successes on the stage—and will restore, as far as possible, the taste of the time making some abbreviation necessary, the tragedy as Shakspeare wrote it. Booth had been for some time contemplating this innovation, which requires no slight courage and the taste of high scholarship. He has had printed at Hurd & Houghton's press, at Cambridge, for the use of himself and company, the play as he proposes to produce it. It is from examination of this copy that I am able to describe to you something of the character and extent of the changes. The multitude familiar with the tragedy as it is done on the stage will hardly recognize the transformed version. Many new characters appear; many disappear. King Henry the Sixth is not seen at all. King Edward the Fourth has a long scene. Clarence figures still more extensively, and has a long and remarkable interview with his brother Gloucester, and another with the murderers who drown him in the Malmsey butt, which will make the part as desirable a one, from the actor's point of view, as Richard himself. Queen Margaret is restored and becomes a personage of first importance. The action begins with Richard's great soliloquy:

"Now is the Winter of our discontent."

The wooing scene with Lady Anne, which speedily follows, in the same act, is materially modified; so is the interview with the precocious, sarcastic little Duke of York. The cruel scene of Richard with his despised wife is eliminated; even is stricken out; and "Richard's himself again" is missing with the rest. But all these elisions make room for a great many new scenes, new speeches, which the genius of Booth can hardly fail to make equally effective. The enterprise of substituting this version of Richard III. for that which has so long been current and has become standard, must be regarded as an experiment; but when undertaken under such auspices as Edwin Booth has at command, it will be at least a most interesting if not an entirely successful one.—Boston Cor. Chicago Tribune.

"Off with his head! so much for Buckingham,"

Mr. Dilke believes that the banana plant is one of the great curses of the tropical countries, because it will support life with no labor. It grows as a weed, and hangs down its branches of ripe, tempting fruit into your lap as you lie under its cool shade. "It will make nothing; you can eat it raw or fried, and that is all; you can eat it every day in your life without getting tired of its taste without suffering in your health, you can live on it exclusively." "The terrible results of the plentiful possession of this tree are seen in Ceylon, at Panama, in the coast-lands of Mexico, at Auckland, in New Zealand. At Pitcairn's Island the plantain grove has beaten the missionary from the field; there is much lip Christianity but no practice, to be got from the people who possess the fatal plant. The much-abused cocoa-nut cannot come near it as a devil's agent."

NATIONAL MUSIC IN GEORGIA.—A Hartford gentleman, who was present at the recent opening of the new State capitol building at Atlanta, Ga., says that after several pieces had been played by the band, which was furnished from Gen. Meade's headquarters Dixie was called for, played and received with rapturous applause. Some Northern men who were present called for Yankee Doodle, and that was received with as many hisses as Dixie had been with cheers. Reconstruction in Georgia can hardly be regarded as complete until our national air can be played at the State capital without causing an uproar of hisses, particularly when it is played by musicians employed and paid by the United States Government.

S. C. Hall related the following anecdote at the dinner table of a distinguished poet in London: "A worldling was once visited, in his illness, by a well-meaning but dolorous clergyman, who disfigured his countenance and wore a face of perpetual mourning. As his sad visage appeared in the doorway the sick man started up and exclaimed, 'Why! what's the matter? You look as if your religion didn't agree with you!'"

The longest artillery range on record—namely, 11,500 yards, over five and three quarter miles—was lately attained at Shoeburyness, by Mr. Whitworth's 9 inch muzzle loader gun of 14 tons, firing a shot of 250 lbs. with a charge of 50 lbs. This range is 225 yards over that of the 7 inch Lynal Thomas gun, which in 1861 ranged 10,075 yards.

During the first performance of one of the London Christmas pantomimes, two gas bags used in preparing the lime light exploded with a great report, and it was only by narrow escapes that actors and theater were saved from injury. The audience thought the noise a part of the performance and applauded it vigorously.

The deepest artesian well in the world is that in St. Louis, which has reached a depth of 3,235 feet. It is practically a failure, as the water does not rise to the top by 125 feet. As the rocks below are parallel, there is no hope that a greater depth would bring water to the surface.

The Call says the velocipede fever is raging in San Francisco, thus

"The velocipede fever is raging among the grown-up boys hereabouts quite as fiercely as the marble or kite fever ever raged among the masculine portion of the rising generation. It may be amusing to some to bark their shins and bruise their noses in attempts to ride these new-fangled hobby-horses, but we can see neither fun nor utility in it. For all practical purposes, the velocipedes are as useless as the squeaking little india-rubber bladders so much affected by the boys at certain periods; and, moreover, they are a nuisance to pedestrians and a source of annoyance to those who ride or drive horses. A stout 'whiskerando' riding a two-wheeled hobby-horse presents about as ridiculous an appearance as would a stout matron jumping a skipping-rope on the sidewalk. But this is a country of extremes. Half-grown boys affect the manners, style and characteristics of men, and middle-aged males delight in sports suited to the capacity of sucklings."

SALT WITH NUTS.—One time, while enjoying a visit from an Englishman, hickory nuts were served in the evening, when my English friend called for salt, stating that he knew a case of a woman eating heartily of nuts in the evening, who was taken violently ill. The celebrated Doctor Abernethy was sent for, but it was after he had become too fond of his cup, and he was not in a condition to go. He muttered, "Salt! salt!" of which no notice was taken. Next morning he went to the place, and she was a corpse. He said that, had he given her salt, it would have relieved her; if they would allow him to make an examination, he would convince them. On opening the stomach, the nuts were found in a mass. He sprinkled salt on this, and it immediately dissolved. I have known of a sudden death myself which appeared to have been the effect of the same cause. I generally eat salt with nuts, and I consider that it improves them.

OYSTER BREEDING IN FRANCE.—In 1859, about 3,000,000 oysters were planted in the bay of St. Brieux, coast of Brittany. In 1860, three fascines, taken up at random, contained 20,000 oysters of from one to two inches in diameter. The total expense of forming each bank was only $44, and 300 fascines were laid down for this sum. The bank would at this rate produce 6,000,000 oysters, which, if sold at $4 per thousand, would yield $24,000. If, however, the number of oysters on each fascine were taken at only 10,000, the sum of $12,000 would be obtained, which for an expenditure of only $44, would according to a French official report, yield a much larger profit than any other branch of industry. In 1862, the crop of oysters sold in Paris amounted in value to $489,219.

State Senator Connell, of Pennsylvania, has invented a new plan for electing United States Senators, which he proposed to submit to the Legislature for adoption. His plan is to allow each of the 79 members of the Legislature to name one candidate, and the Speaker of the Senate (who presides over the joint meeting, or convention, of both houses) to select two, making in all 80 candidates whose names must be entered on a list, which must be "passed around" among the members for each to scratch off one name, leaving at last only one name on the list, the fortunate owner of which would be deemed the choice of the Legislature for the United States Senate.

The population of White Pine district is estimated at 6,000. Treasure City alone is said to contain not less than 3,500.

STOW FOUNDATION PAVEMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 18, 1869.

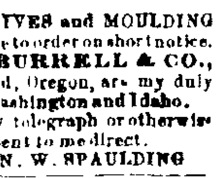

Hon. Frank McCoppin, Mayor of ... San Francisco—Dear Sir: ... [illegible] ... during which time you must have ... [illegible] ... Paving, and I ... [illegible] ... the result of your convictions relative to the ... [illegible] ... will much oblige
Yours, respectfully,
H. F. WILLIAMS
President Stow Foundation Pavement Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20, 1869.
Henry F. Williams, Esq., President of the S. F. P. Co.—Dear Sir: Your communication of yesterday, requesting me to give in writing my opinion relative to the several kinds of street pavement now in use in this city, is before me, and in reply I would say that at the time I became a municipal officer of this city, in 1860, and for many years thereafter, cobble stone was the only kind of pavement used by the city in its corporate, and by individuals in their individual capacity. About five years ago the Nicholson pavement was introduced here by Mr. J. J. Robbins, assignee of the owner of the patent, and was received with much favor by our citizens. Very many portions of our streets are now paved with the Nicholson Pavement, so called—still later—that is to say about two years ago, the "Stow Foundation Pavement" was introduced here by the inventor, and many of our public streets have since been paved with that pavement. A sufficient length of time has, I think, elapsed, to enable any person who has given the subject any attention, to form a tolerably good opinion as to the merits of the respective ... [illegible] ... I have come to the conclusion that in many respects, such as adaptability to our wants and to durability, the Stow is the superior pavement. But, were the two pavements otherwise equal in every other respect, the facility with which the Stow can be taken up and relaid, whenever it becomes necessary to displace it for the purpose of laying down gas and water pipes, should, in my judgment, entitle it to preference and public favor.
Very respectfully, your obedient servant
FRANK McCOPPIN,
Mayor of the City of San Francisco.

We, the undersigned, have carefully read the above letter from his Honor, Frank McCoppin, to H. F. Williams, Esq., upon the subject of street paving, and we fully indorse every word it contains.

NOTES.

Proposals must be to carry the mail with "celerity, certainty and security," using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons, certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connections with depending mails, and not sufficiently excused, one-fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed, unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained, for neglecting to take the mail from or into a post office, for suffering it to be injured, robbed, or lost, and for refusing after demand, to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs, or is concerned in running, a vehicle on the route. The Postmaster General may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals, and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part at a pro rata decrease of pay, allowing one month's extra compensation on the amount of service dispensed with. Bids should be addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," superscribed "Proposals, State of Oregon," and sent by mail.

For forms of proposal, &c., and other information, see advertisement of this date, in pamphlet form, at the principal post offices. ALEX W. RANDALL,

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent, the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to everything of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana.

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California journals, and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources.

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

are furnished every week, giving the Financial, Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism. Being firmly established, it will go forward with confidence, making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible diseases ... maladies—see that they are cared for and attended to ere it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private diseases his study ... years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTIONS.—At the request of about forty passengers and "32 others," per steamer Active, we publish the following proceedings of a meeting on board that ship on her late trip from Victoria to this port. We omit the names attached:

"At a meeting on board of the steamship Active, by the passengers on the voyage from Victoria, V. I., to Portland, Oregon, February 22, 1869, after arriving in the river the following proceedings were had:

On motion, the meeting called Judge J. F. McCoy to the Chair, and on motion, Pierpont Thayer was appointed Secretary. Whereupon, W. Lair Hill, Esq., addressed the meeting, stating the object, and complimenting the officers and crew on their good judgment in the management of their ship. And, on motion, the following resolutions were read and unanimously adopted and signed:

WHEREAS, The unusually large number of passengers on this voyage has required of the officers of the steamship Active the exercise of extraordinary patience as well as great labor in providing for our wants, therefore,

Resolved, That we tender to the said officers and crew our sincere thanks for patient, untiring and courteous attention to our comfort and safety, which has made the voyage an exceedingly pleasant one.

Resolved, That we have exhausted our ingenuity in attempts to provoke the said officers to become disagreeable and uncivil, and are fully satisfied that 'the thing can't be did.'"

ARRIVAL OF THE ACTIVE.—The steamer Active arrived from Victoria yesterday morning, just as we had our forms on the press—too late for the publication of her memoranda and passenger list. Memoranda—Left Victoria February 21, 1869, at 6.30 A. M.; passed Cape Flattery at 12.30 P. M.; crossed Columbia River Bar at 9.30 A. M. the 22d, and arrived at Astoria at 11.30 A. M.; left Astoria at 12.30 P. M., and arrived at Portland at 12.30 P. M. Had fair weather during the voyage. Passengers—Capt E A White, Royal Navy, Lieut F Dent, Royal Navy, Lieut H K Maclean, Royal Navy, Dr W D Lanfield, Royal Navy, Mr and Mrs F M Bates, Miss M Browning, Miss M Field, Miss N Cummings, Mrs E M Marshall, Mr and Mrs E B Thomas, Mrs Tiedman, Miss L McLane, Miss Ellen F Conway, P O Toole, Peter McQuade, J R Robinson, Thos Connor, P Thayer, L Wolf, Judge Hill, J R Ritbett, L O Beeman, Judge McCoy, A Myer, H Edwards, T R Pharwood, Mr and Mrs Geo Bird, Miss M Franklyn, Mrs M. Franklyn, Miss M Tinn, Miss I Strachan, Miss Lizzie Levelle, Mrs Ford, James Boland, W K Battley, R E Johnson, J R Adams, Charles Thornton, John Wilson, H Watson, C Norris, W Livermore, L Mennig, H Winkleman, T O Donohue, T Curry, E C Gillette, J A Lott, M Hilton, C Merle, H J Hartnell, H M Cohen, D Spencer, John Gordon, John Karns, J B Nalley, Saml Moses, O Jones, M Rogers, C W Kemp, John Ross, Alfred Smith, Robt Silcock, F B Chase, J Chivers, Chang Wing, Chow Foon.

AS GOOD AS NEW.—We wot of an individual who went to the Guard's ball, Monday night, wearing a silk plug—one of Meussdorffer's best. He was careful of his plug; 'twas his only plug. He put it away on a bench in a remote corner of the gallery. 'Tis safe said he. And then he chuckled. Then he danced. In the fullness of time he sought out his plug to go home. He didn't find it. Only a flattened pile of crushed hat. Some vandal had sat onto it, ker-plump. He swore. He swore more terribly than our army in Flanders. He went home with his pile of crushed hat, and had the nightmare. Next morning to Meussdorffer's. In ten minutes he came forth with that same "shocking bad hat" looking as good as new. Meussdorffer can take any old hat and work it up into a glossy silk tile. And this reminds us that he is going below per steamer Continental for a big stock of [illegible] goods.

SALEM ITEMS.—From the Unionist we learn that [illegible] Cleveland and Jenk, spiritists, are giving seances at the Capital......Geo. Steele, of Ladd & Tilton's, is also in Salem, and the Unionist says "From a statement made in our paper a few days since, we believe he is [illegible] his honey-moon in Salem."..... Speaking of the forthcoming Willamette Farmer, the Unionist says, "The Albany Democrat [illegible] partisans not to subscribe for the Willamette Farmer because John Minto is to be editor. This is the first that we had heard that Minto was going into the newspaper business, but it has been [illegible] about here that Beriah Brown was to have [illegible] to do with the new paper, but supposed it only a rumor. But if such should be, the Democrats can urge no objections against [illegible] liberality."

[illegible] COURT.—Proceedings of Tuesday, Feb. 23: Case of Elfelt, Wolf & Co. vs. H. R. Snow, et al., argued and submitted. The argument consumed the greater part of the day.

State of Oregon vs. James Connelly, and State of Oregon vs. [illegible] and Ed. Malroy; motion to quash indictment on the ground that the Grand Jury was not lawfully impanelled, argued and overruled. The decision in these cases virtually [illegible] all the motions pending in criminal cases. It is [illegible], however, that one or more of these cases, in case of conviction, will go up to the Supreme Court upon appeal. The point argued is [illegible] can lawfully hold a court in a district other than his own.

THE BATES DRAMATIC COMPANY.—As we anticipated this company arrived by the steamship Active. During their short stay at Victoria they were quite successful, and they [illegible] here with the most grateful remembrances of the generous treatment received at the hands of the Victorians. We are not able to state what arrangements they have made or intend to make in relation to re-opening the theater here, though we hope to be able to make an early announcement in this behalf. We think the Portland public will give them a rousing greeting when they shall again appear at Oro Fino.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—W. R. Dunbar, Deputy G. W. P., for Oregon, instituted a Division of the Sons of Temperance at Oregon City, last Friday evening, with twenty-[illegible] members. We received a letter Sunday evening, containing a list of the officers installed, but it became [illegible] mislaid until now. The following are the officers: C E Murray, W P; A J Marshall, W A; D C Ireland, R S; W M Pecop, T; Rev E Geary, Chap; D Canfield, C Paquett, M; F Shannon, I S; G F Smith, O S; [illegible], P W P. The Division takes the name, "[illegible] Division, No. 3."

[illegible] from Victoria to this port [illegible] relieved Mr. Pierpont Thayer of all his [illegible] clothing, except what he was [illegible] morning the police made a search [illegible] for the missing garments, but nothing found [illegible] a pair of very ragged pants, used [illegible] plays as the "Streets of New York." These were left by the thief between decks. It is supposed that he succeeded in getting ashore with all the goods.

[illegible] FRANCISCO.—Isaac Barman, of the firm of Barman Bros, the fashionable merchant tailors and clothiers, will depart by the steamer Continental, for San Francisco, for the purpose of purchasing new stocks of goods. Upon the arrival of the return steamer they will be able to offer to their friends and the public generally the latest styles of cloths, cassimeres, vestings and everything else included in a first class merchant tailoring establishment.

CATTLE FOR THE UPPER COUNTRY.—The Commercial says: "The Cascade will stop at Sauvies Island to-morrow [illegible] morning, and take on a large drove of cattle destined for the upper country. On Tuesday [illegible] she will take on board at Portland, 190 head for the same destination. On the succeeding trip she will also take on board a large drove for the country east of the mountains."

SUPERLATIVELY PERFECT.—The evening Bull says of Lafont & Ward's minstrel performances. "Their delineation of the negro character is perfect almost to a fault." Really, then, Lafont & Ward ought not to do the best they can. When a performance gets to be so superlatively perfect as to be faulty, we prefer less perfection in ours.

EXPLANATION.—A note from Colonel W. D. White, of the Cliff House, explains how the misunderstanding occurred in relation to the time when the afternoon steamer for Oregon City should leave here Monday. He made the arrangement for the delay till half-past three, with Captain Kellogg, Senior, who failed to inform the Captain of the S[illegible].

ARRIVED AT VICTORIA.—A telegram of yesterday announces that the steamer Hunt arrived at Victoria on Monday, twenty hours from the Columbia bar. She left Astoria Sunday morning, and had very pleasant weather all the way round. The steamer Geo. S. Wright arrived at Victoria yesterday at four o'clock P. M.

THE LONG TOM NAVIGATED.—The steamer Ann went up the Long Tom river to Monroe, on the 17th inst., and returned with a load of flour from the mills at that place. This is the first trip of the kind ever made, and may be supposed to demonstrate the practicability of steamboating on the Long Tom.

SAILED.—The bark Live Yankee, Capt Wiggins, was towed down to the Columbia river yesterday afternoon, by the Fannie Troup. She carries away a cargo of about five hundred and forty tons produce, consisting of flour, bran, middlings, etc.

A PRESENT.—A generous and considerate friend at Vancouver has presented ye Local with a beautiful and genuine meerschaum pipe. The donor makes the special request that we will not give him a puff. We won't, but as the next best thing we can do, we'll puff the pipe.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—We learn that the various Irish associations of this city will, as usual, celebrate St. Patrick's Day, and that an invitation has been extended to Mr. S. J. McCormick to deliver an oration upon the occasion.

SPARRING MATCH.—A large crowd was out last evening to witness the "sparring" at the New Idea. We did not witness the performance, but we learn that the devotees of the ring had an immense deal of fun.

FROM NEW YORK.—The bark Ormyn, of Mercer's Direct Line, arrived last evening, in tow of the steamer Okanagan. She will commence discharging to-day at the new wharf in rear of Vaughn's mill.

SEIZURE OF LIQUORS.—Deputy Collector H. L. Hoyt seized, yesterday morning, on the wharf, ten cases of English Porter, for violation on the part of the shipper, of the customs laws.

CLEANING THE CISTERNS.—The cisterns are being cleaned out, under the superintendence of the Chief Engineer. Considerable quantities of mud are found in all those that have been pumped out, thus far.

FOR VICTORIA AND PUGET SOUND.—The steamship Active, F. C. Schell Commander, will sail at 5 o'clock this evening for Victoria, Port Townsend, Seattle, Steilacoom and Olympia.

COMPLIMENTS.—We respectfully acknowledge the receipt of "complimentary" cake, etc. from Messrs. White & Rhodes, of the Cliff House, Oregon City.

The Treasure of Treasure Hill

Owen, editor of the San Jose Mercury, took a run over to White Pine the other day and wrote some letters therefrom, portions of which have been copied by the Bee. He is at home now, and in the Mercury of the 4th inst. has a summing up article, in which he says:

Of the almost fabulous richness of the mines of Treasure Hill [illegible] further [illegible] are made. [illegible] seems to have been [illegible] a vast [illegible] where the heat has been so intense as to burn out all baser metals than silver. It is a barren, cone-shaped mountain of almost no rock, interspersed with silver bearing ore. The ore exists in masses or pockets, sometimes lying in horizontal strata, and occasionally cropping out in immense ledges dipping into the hill. Almost the entire hill is covered with [illegible] that prospectors will hereafter have to seek new fields of enterprise.

There is but little doubt that the entire range of mountains extending from White Pine south for a distance of a hundred miles or more is rich in minerals. In fact about thirty miles south a new district has been organized known as the Grant District, in which, as we are informed, some rich discoveries have been made. About seventy White Piners started for that district the day before we left the Hill. Still further south the Meadow Lake District has been organized. That entire mountain range will be thoroughly prospected next summer.

The White Pine District possesses natural advantages over Washoe in the reduction of ores. The mills will be brought at Hamilton and Silver Springs, where there is an abundance of fuel and water easy of access. Some portions of the base range are also very well timbered with nut pine. All of the ores yet discovered at Treasure Hill are free from base metal, and hence easily reduced.

The excitement in the Atlantic States concerning this new discovery is running high, and thousands are arranging to visit the mines in the Spring. Many fortunes will be made, and there will also be many failures, as a matter of course. The place is too near the railroad—that great artery of civilization—to witness much suffering. Supplies are abundant there now, and they will keep pace with the incoming rush. Our advice to all is, keep cool—if you can. Don't fly off the handle. You can do nothing by rushing there this winter; as from five to eight feet of snow, if not already there, may be expected at any time. Besides all prospecting is doubtless at an end for the winter. Wait till Spring, and if you then feel like trying your luck at the White Pine, wade in. The wealth of the district is beyond all calculation. There is enough and to spare for all who go—if they can only strike it.

INDIA RUBBER SPONGES.—A new European invention is an imitation of sponge made from India rubber. The imitation is stated to be perfect in appearance, but much softer than the real sponge, and its power of absorption, owing to its elastic quality, is said to be much greater. So far as experiments with this article have been made, they indicate much greater durability than belongs to the natural sponge, and the prospects are that it will be in large request for surgeons use and the bath. It has the advantage of being shaped into any required form without loss, and its softness is not impaired by the process. This will give it importance in surgery, where a very delicate article is very desirable.

Gen. Rosseau leaves a widow and four or five children. His elder daughter married Lieut. Watkins, of the United States Army, who died suddenly in New Orleans six or eight months ago, leaving three children in the care of his wife. Gen. Rosseau has two sons in the army, the younger of whom was a member of his staff. He had recently purchased a very fine and extensive plantation near Brashear City, on Berwick's Bay, Louisiana, and was busy with preparations for extensive planting this year.

HOW THESE THINGS ARE DONE. The Virginia City Safeguard makes this announcement, and it says no more:

"Frank Bolinger, well known to all old Mariposans, was assassinated last week by some unknown person. Frank was a desperate and dangerous man when in liquor, and was 'hunting' for somebody with a shotgun and sixshooter on the night of his death—which, probably, resulted from finding his man."

The Chicago Tribune says of "Mark Twain:" "Blessed with long legs, he is tall, reaching five feet ten inches in his boots; weight, 167 pounds; body lithe and muscular; head round, and well set on considerable neck; and feet of vast size. He smokes tobacco. The eyes are deep set, and twinkle like stars in a dark night. The brow overhangs the eyes, and the head is protected from the weather by dark and curling locks. He looks as if he would make a good husband and a jolly father."

A Southern journal suggests that "as a means of putting a stop to the foolish and criminal habit of shooting one another in the South upon the slightest provocation, the press should cease giving reports of those rencontres." If the authorities in the South would hang a few of the reckless shooters, perhaps it would have a still more beneficial effect in putting a stop to the "foolish and criminal habit."

There are two mills in California that manufacture blasting and other powder—one is in Santa Cruz county and the other in Marin. In the past year the Santa Cruz mill produced 83,381 kegs and 969 packages—and the Marin mill 20,000 kegs. The former mill has a capacity of 10,000 kegs per month. The capital employed in both mills is nearly half a million dollars.

A clergyman and one of the elderly parishoners were walking home from meeting one frosty day, when the old gentleman slipped and fell upon his back. The minister, on being assured that he was not hurt, said to him, "My friend, sinners stand on slippery places." The old gentleman looked up, as if to assure him of the fact, and replied, "Yes, I see they do; but I can't."

A woman lately left a train at the Hartford depot, says a Connecticut paper, to get a cup of coffee, and while she was absent the train started, carrying off her baby. The mother was greatly excited, and the railroad officials telegraphed to Berlin to have the baby "switched" there which was done, and soon the separated family was collected together.

An impecunious country editor duns his patrons as follows: "A man might as well attempt to quench the phosphorescent emanations from the tail-end of a lightning bug with a squirt gun as to try to run a newspaper without money."

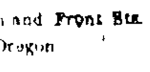

In opposition to the terrific analyzations of whisky by the New York World, the New York Mercury claims that fusil oil is not unhealthy. Corn bread, it says, contains proportionately more of it than whisky. Rather heavy, this, on corn bread, or its imaginative and nervous consumers.

CALISAYA BARK.—It is said that Messrs. Drake & Co., (Proprietors of the PLANTATION BITTERS) are the largest importers of Calisaya Bark in this country and that with the exception of an occasional sale, that all they import is used in the compounding of their celebrated Plantation Bitters, and to which they are indebted [illegible] health-restoring properties. As a Tonic and Appetizer they are not surpassed, and we cheerfully recommend them. All first-class Druggists keep them for sale.

The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial. It only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

Railroad Progress

There is great activity in the mills and shops of the east side railroad. Everything is in the best possible order, and the manner in which the work is going on is a certain indication that the road is to be pushed forward rapidly. In and about the mills and shops one hundred and twenty-five men are employed, and the good weather we are now having is extremely favorable for the prosecution of the work. The two steam saw mills are being pushed to their utmost capacity. One of them is engaged exclusively upon ties, of which it cuts sufficient for half a mile of road per day. On Monday last this mill sawed 1,649 ties, or enough for three-fifths of a mile, amounting to 52,000 feet of lumber. About fifty men are required to keep it at work. The other mill is cutting timber for bridges and trestle work. It saws timber, when required, 110 feet in length. It is intended to prepare at these mills all the ties, bridge timber and trestles which will be required for the road, at least as far as the Santiam. Each of the mills is situated in an excellent body of timber, very near the line of the road, and about two miles distant from Milwaukie. About 60,000 ties have already been sawed, and a considerable quantity of bridge timber. In the machine and car shops near East Portland work is going on briskly. Two superb passenger cars, each fifty feet in length, are advanced towards completion, and eight more will be built immediately. Several heavy construction cars have also been built. About two miles this side of the Clackamas river a party are employed putting in foundations for a considerable piece of trestle work which it is necessary to erect at that point. All appearances indicate that the road will make rapid progress during the coming summer. It is gratifying to witness the activity that is being displayed in this enterprise. Every person in Oregon has an interest in knowing that our railroad projects are to go on. Work on the west side, we are told, is being prosecuted with vigor. The Wallamet valley wants both roads.

Small Notes.

Several pairs of Oregon grouse have been imported into California. It is designed to set the birds at liberty in some one of the counties adjacent to San Francisco for the purpose of stocking the country with that species of game.

The San Francisco Herald says that city will soon be in keen rivalry with Chicago for the interior market, and that "it is necessary to secure the cheapest terms that the Central Pacific can afford, in order that the merchants of San Francisco can compete successfully with [illegible] the Chicago and St. Louis jobbing and commission houses."

A California paper reports that building, bridge and railroad timber is very scarce in that State. Progress lags for want of it. Work upon the tunnel at Livermore Pass, on the Western Pacific, had to stop because timber, to be used therein, cannot be had. Although ordered full five months ago, the previous contracts of the mills were so large that they have not filled this one yet.

Mr. Ashley's bill is intended to radically change the present boundaries of several States and Territories, and to wipe out that of Dakota entirely. The States of Minnesota and Nebraska, already of immense area, are to be more than doubled in size by this division of Dakota. Nebraska's share of the spoils amounts to not less than 20,000 square miles. There is little probability that the bill will pass.

The Humboldt Register says that if the bitter rivalry between the Central and Union Pacific railroad companies continues to widen and deepen, and finally results in the building of two roads, instead of one, across the continent, the people will have great cause to be thankful, as competition is what they want, above all else. If the Union Pacific attempt to pass to the Central Pacific with an independent line, the Central Pacific will find the means of self-preservation in an independent line by way of St. Louis.

The women's rights paper published at Chicago beats the Revolution, the New York organ, out and out. It warns the women that "the contest between the masculine and feminine powers is going to be terrible and desperate. Man has resolved to see the world destroyed before he will yield one inch of real power to women. Women will be drawn into the vortex, unless they get their eyes opened. Live on fruits and vegetables, and avoid meat and stimulants, and constantly look to the Lord for help. This is earth's greatest time of trouble."

What Englishmen think of Americans in 1868 is indicated by the following from the London Spectator of a late date: "It has really been shown, we believe, that a great many of what we call Americanisms are good old English idioms used in their good old English sense. But even the true Americanisms have the flavor of an originality, strength and youth, which are not very visible in England, and which we are often compelled to borrow. And we doubt if any English writer now living writes so pure a classical English as was written by Nathaniel Hawthorne." So, then, it appears that we not only really speak the English language, but manage it better than our English friends themselves.

The Sacramento Union has the following remarks on the proposed suffrage amendment: "Since the word 'citizens' is used, no foreigner or subject of a foreign power is included. It is only those born upon our soil and not subject to a foreign power and those duly naturalized who are described as citizens. Indians are not included, because they are foreign tribes and dealt with as such by treaty. Chinese and other immigrants are not citizens till naturalized. The naturalization laws admit only white persons, so that neither Mongolian, Malay or African can be made citizens except by birth upon the soil. The prospect of Chinese births here is not appalling at present."

The Eugene paper says: "It will be remembered by many of our readers that there is a practicable pass across the Cascade Mountains in following up the McKenzie Fork, and which was a few years ago considerably used. This was always claimed, and is still by many persons, to be a far more desirable route for general use than the [illegible] route, on which so many thousand [illegible] of our farmer's money has been expended and so far to so little purpose. Canyon City and that region is almost due east of us, as well as Boise City and that region, and the McKenzie route is directly in that course. A gentleman here, but who has lived for several years past at Canyon City, says this country could, as well as not, with a small outlay on that road, have supplied that market for the last five years with its flour, bacon, butter, and other articles of produce, finding always a ready sale, and remunerative prices. Indeed, we have no doubt that one half the money which has been expended on the wagon road from the Dalles to Canyon City would have made a much better route from the latter place to Eugene City.

STATE ITEMS

The [illegible] reports that two [illegible] are being built at [illegible].

Long Tom is navigable. A steamboat has reached Monroe. How the Long Tomers received the "Abolition institution" we are not informed.

A Methodist revival meeting is in progress at Corvallis. It is to be continued through the present week, perhaps longer.

The new schooner, [illegible], under command of Capt. J. J. Winant, sailed from Newport, Yaquina Bay, for San Francisco, on Friday, 16th inst., with over 100,000 feet of lumber, equal to about 50 tons, besides tree freight and quite a number of passengers. We clip from the Corvallis Gazette.

The Corvallis paper has the following: We are glad to be able to state that there are no new cases of small pox either in this community or at Yaquina. But one case has occurred at each place and both are convalescent. From a gentleman, just out from the bay, we learn that the rumor of small pox among the Indians on the Siletz Reservation, is without foundation.

The Eugene Guard of Saturday says: An exchange of shots took place at Gen. Buren's store, at Cottage Grove, last Saturday, between a man named Painter and Isam Splawn, which came near resulting seriously. Painter and Splawn were engaged in an altercation and both drew their revolvers and fired. Splawn's ball taking effect in the ceiling and the ball from Painter's pistol just grazing the arm of Mr. George Lane, who was standing in the rear of the store. A variation of an inch in the course of the ball, and it would have been a fatal shot. Disinterested bystanders are generally the ones who are in the most danger at such times.

Goose Lake, in Southeastern Oregon, has great "resources." A correspondent of the Eugene Guard gives some account of them. An industrious man can, during the month of May, gather any day from ten to twenty dozen goose eggs, and as many duck eggs, and all they cost is the picking up, as they are laid by the wild fowls which breed by the millions. If that country had railroad facilities, then ice would become a valuable crop there, as all the lakes in that region are froze to the bottom during one half of the year. It would only be necessary to prepare large vats, say ten feet high, ten feet wide and thirty feet long, and fill them with water during the summer and they would freeze solid the next winter, when in this condition, you could set them aboard of the cars and send your ice to any market in the Union, and your fortune is made. But fine lime is known to be valuable in Oregon, and the margin of that lake abounds with the elements of that article. A smart boy could easily pick up five bushels of egg shells a day, which, when burned would produce four barrels of the best lime in the world, worth fifteen dollars a barrel in any market. Here is money again. Feathers is an article the want of which is felt by all in Oregon. It would only be necessary to have a patent spring net, say about one mile in length, and half a mile wide, made of such material as would be invisible to the fowls, and any one can see that there would be no difficulty in taking from ten to twenty thousand fowls at a haul, when all you would have to do would be to pick 'em and let 'em go till their feathers grew out and then net 'em again.

The Unionist has the following about the child that was lost at Salem on Saturday evening last: The little fellow was not found until 2 o'clock Sunday evening. He received some severe injuries from the frost, but is now considered out of danger. The child is about two and a half years old, and on Saturday afternoon, that being a pleasant day, it was taken out to play by some children older, who played at hide-and-seek until about 4 o'clock, when they missed the little boy. The older children ran home and gave the alarm, when the parents started out to find the little wanderer. In this they failed, and about dark the alarm was sounded in the city, and a company of about one hundred persons went over and beat about for several hours, when they all got together and formed a line, stretching over as much ground as possible, and made a thorough search. In this way the company scoured the whole country as far as it was thought possible that the little boy would go, but to no avail. Finally it came to the mind of Mr. Miller, partner of Mr. Westacott, to try his dog. A hat was shown to the dog which had been worn by the boy. After smelling the hat the dog was taken to where the boy was last seen, when he struck out, followed by Mr. Miller. The dog went much faster than his master, but when too far ahead returned again. In this manner, the track was followed for a mile and a half, to within a short distance from Fre bitas Smith's place, where the dog went into a thicket. From this it would not come, although his master used both commands and entreaties. Finally, Mr. Miller went into the brush, and there, on a small pile of sticks, lay the little wanderer, insensible from the cold. Mr. Miller was so moved at the suffering of the little fellow, that he missed his way and wandered about for as much as two hours before he got out. At first the physicians thought the boy could not live, but by good treatment he has recovered so that he can talk. His feet are frosted considerably and some of the muscles will probably slough off. In his wandering the boy had waded through water waist deep, and getting wet contributed greatly to the intensity of the cold.

Alaska.

The Postmaster at Sitka, an old Californian, writes under date of December 28th to the Nevada Transcript. He was there before the American flag was raised over that Territory, and therefore speaks from experience. We extract from his letter:

"What vegetation has been grown demonstrates that this is not an agricultural country. Cabbages never head, potatoes are very watery, and although the greatest care and attention has been paid to raising them, none have grown larger than a small sized hen egg. The hardier vegetables, such as radish, turnip, lettuce and beet do as well here as elsewhere, and parsley thrives exceedingly well. Beans and peas are out of the question, although a couple of messes were, with difficulty, obtained as early as the 28th day of August from the May's planting. It is needless to say the enterprising ranchmen have closed out with disgust and embarked in the universal avocation of trading damaged provisions to the Indians. This year the season has been unusually fine, long Summer days blending almost into the morning. During the Spring of the year Sitka is subjected to south east winds, heavy rains and dense fogs. In the month of April vegetation takes a shoot, and the atmosphere sensibly changes from cold winds to genial breezes. At this season the herring commence to school in myriads, yet, acres upon acres are thrown or left by the tide on the beach to die and be washed away on its return. About the 15th of May the salmon begin to be seen, but the season may be said not to begin until the middle of June. They then begin to school towards the mouths of fresh water streams, where traps and nets are awaiting to snare them for salting purposes.

This will undoubtedly be one of the vast resources of our Territory, and on this, the timber and the fur, we must make up our minds to depend solely. The timber in the immediate vicinity is not much, being low, stunted and scrubby. No large quantities have been found within any reasonable distance and suitable for shipping, in any one place. The most valuable wood as yet known to us is the yellow cedar. It is durable, and capable of taking the most exquisite polish, and in closeness of grain nearly equal to that of box wood. Here, however, it is scarce."

[illegible] The Missouri [illegible]. An imaginative or unusually well informed [illegible] of the Union Pacific railroad southward to the thirty second parallel, gives the Missouri R[illegible] [illegible] of the wealth of the Mexican States of Durango and Chihuahua. He tells of a citizen of the latter State who has a silver mine of fabulous richness, for which a [illegible] company have vainly offered him [illegible] dollars. This wealthy Chihuahuan is called [illegible] Cordero. He lives in a style of extravagant magnificence, but even to supply all the luxuries which he has habituated himself to use, he only works his mine a few days at odd times. His [illegible] rooms in his magnificent establishment are described as splendid beyond comparison. [illegible] are said by this correspondent to be [illegible] columns of pure silver one and a half feet [illegible] amater and twenty [illegible] Zambrano, [illegible] Durango, with a mine from which he [illegible] fifty millions, and [illegible]. These and other [illegible] sons why the [illegible] Pacific Railroad. Would it not seem [illegible] the correspondent's statements as true, that Messrs. Cordero, Zambrano, and their [illegible] of Durango and Chihuahua are quite as able as is our Government to aid the enterprise. Would it be [illegible] those gentlemen [illegible].

Bets are being made that General Grant's inauguration address will be the briefest ever made.

The House Committee has agreed not to report the Senate bill granting a portion of Goat Island to the Central Pacific railroad.

Americans Appointed to Office in Japan

A Japan letter of December 22d, says the Mikado re-states ex Lieut. Grinnell, an American, as chief of a Bureau. He has appointed Gen. Paul Franks, formerly of the U. S. army, as adjutant in Chief of the Japanese military forces, with a salary of $12,000 per year. The English and French representatives have protested against these appointments, but were met by the reply that Japan is an independent nation and does not recognize their right to question or dictate its policy.

Celebration of Washington's Birthday

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. Washington's birthday was observed as a legal holiday. Very little business was done. Dispatches from various other cities say the day was appropriately observed.

Miscellaneous

FORTRESS MONROE, Feb. 22. A few shanties occupied by negro squatters on a farm of [illegible] Slater, near Hampton, have been removed by a special officer, assisted by the military, after three attempts to dispossess them.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. The Herald urges a settlement of the trouble with Mexico by annexation by the United States, one of the results of which it thinks would be the preventing of any Isthmus troubles in case of Tehauntepec and Darien falling into the hands of England or France.

James Watson Webb sailed for Brazil to-day to resume the duties of his mission.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. St. Thomas dates of the 4th, state that the people there still hope for annexation to the United States.

Another victim of hydrophobia died on Long Island. A little child and several others who have been bitten are reported to be in critical conditions. The dogs are being killed rapidly in the outskirts of Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23. The English party have returned from Alta Vela, reporting that the guano there is worthless.

From Cuba

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The Herald's Havana special states that no further military or field operations will be attempted by the Spaniards, but all fortified points will be occupied by garrisons.

An American blockade runner has successfully landed her cargo for the insurgents.

Two thousand Cubans have revolted at Palma near Cardenas.

A Spanish gun boat has been captured by the insurgents near Manzanillo. Attack on Puerto Principe is delayed on account of the women and children.

The Herald's Rio Janeiro letter of January 20, says Augustura surrendered Dec. 30th. The garrison marched out with the honors of war. Seventy five guns were among the captures. On the 1st, Asuncion was occupied without resistance. Lopez, himself, is entrenched in the mountains with 5,000 men. The Paraguayan gun boats were safe above Asuncion. McMahan still accompanied Lopez. His attachment to him has caused considerable feeling on the part of the Brazilians, who talk as if the government might any moment break off diplomatic relations with the United States on account of it.

HAVANA, Feb. 23. Further advices from Mexico report a disgraceful state of affairs at the capital. Jejada is reported as against the progress of foreigners, and especially of Americans. He is strongly of the opinion that the government is imbecile, and that the ministers are corruptly making money and lending it to foreign countries. Rosecrans attempted to influence the government to improve the country which he looks upon as in a suffering condition. It is reported that English men and Americans are negotiating in the United States for the payment of English claims, the United States to take Mexican territory in consideration thereof.

St Domingo advices state that Haitroult, the English banker, was unsuccessful in negotiating a loan, and has returned to England. After the surrender of Acquin, Salnave's troops perpetrated indiscriminate slaughter. Haytien ships of war are bombarding the ruins of the towns on the coast.

From South America.

NEW YORK, Feb. 22. The steamer Mississippi arrived yesterday. She brought Bliss and Masterman, the recent prisoners of Lopez, with orders to report at Washington. Bliss states that they were arrested on a charge made by the brother of Lopez, to attract attention from himself, he having been detected in robbing the National treasury. Bliss has been examined before a military tribunal and subjected to repeated tortures. When finally released they were compelled to attest the truth of the statements extorted from them in the presence of the United States Naval officers.

Lopez is believed to be entrenched in a mountain pass in the vicinity of Coreon. Minister McMahon is with him.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Seven thousand citizens petition the Board of Supervisors against making a contract with the San Francisco gas company for a longer period than two years.

The mail steamer China arrived from Yokohama this morning, with dates thence to 27th from Japan.

J. S. Sampson attempted to commit suicide Sunday morning by jumping from the second story window of a house on Broadway street. He was not much injured, and in the evening tried to jump off Front street wharf, but was prevented.

There were 18 men punished to-day in the police court for drunkenness.

Trotting match, three mile heats and repeat, for $2,000, between the "Tobin Mare" and "Belle Boyd," came off at Golden Gate Track yesterday. The race was won by the former in two heats—time, 8.30 and 8.[illegible].

A daring attempt was made last evening to *burn Mo[illegible] & Bar[illegible]'s furniture store on Mar*ket street. The fire was discovered and extinguished with trifling damage.

From Mr. H. M. Walker, a gentleman who has been for some time employed as carpenter about the new mill which is being built at Tacoma, we learn that the mill is to be 350 feet long, and one section 50 feet wide, the remaining portion not quite so wide.

For some time past, a number of men have been prospecting in the region of the Black Hills for gold. We have heard rumors of their finding the "color," which could hardly be otherwise, considering that it can be found in small particles in almost every ravine in the county. We learn, however, that some of the citizens of Miami Prairie and that vicinity have opened a road to Waddle's creek, and would take a wagon load of sluice boxes in on Wednesday last, to test some ground on the creek. The result will be learned probably in a day or two.

Letter from Baker County.

EL DORADO, Feb. 10, 1869.

EDITOR OREGONIAN:

The fact of the existence of a flourishing town upon the rich and hitherto obscure places along the confines of Willow Creek, the main artery of Malheur river, Eastern Oregon, may not have become universally known. Such, however, is the case, yet in consequence of the all absorbing intelligence afloat respecting the renowned White Pine district, it would seem our thriving El Dorado could fully afford inducements sufficiently attractive to arrest a fair and truly merited portion of the fortune seeking public.

The comparative newness of the discoveries and the momentous disadvantages under which the pioneers of the camp have struggled in developing a field for profitable enterprise, has rendered a knowledge of the character and locality of the mines somewhat local in extent. Now, on the eve of achieving a grand triumph of indomitable energies in prosecuting their undertaking, the Pioneer Ditch Company will illustrate the present season to the community and outside world, as to the quantity and quality of material upon which have been based their golden hopes. The present bids fair to be a profitable season, and beyond question the advent of spring will be attended with the "howl" and "hustle" usually following in the wake of successful prospecting. The mines thus far come fully up to the sanguine expectations of the interested, and justify the opinion that, by neither than the famous afore-mentioned district are they to be excelled. A combination under charter of Burnt River Ditch and Mining Company have not been slow in estimating the revenue to be derived from these mines and, accordingly, aided by Portland capitalists, have extended a ditch of large capacity to this point. This, in connection with the Pioneer ditch will serve to make El Dorado a lively and desirable camp for the miner who may deem it expedient to defer a trip further inland, [illegible]. Merchandising and the various branches of industry indispensable to mining will be no less remunerative than permanent, and even now preparations are going ahead on a scale verifying the convictions that El Dorado and her dependencies are anything else than "freeze-out" camps.

Buildings of the most substantial character rise like magic; mercantile houses are becoming possessed of fire proof cellars, and display excellent stocks, varying in detail and suited peculiarly to the requirements of this market. Hotels, restaurants, and houses of entertainment abound in variety, prominent among which is the El Dorado, under the proprietorship of Messrs. Reeves & Stanley, and the Exchange, under the direction of J. Delaney. Stephenson Brothers, late of [illegible], are among the heavy dealers in dry goods and general outfittings for mining purposes.

Lumber is freely sawed on the hilltops, and steam and water power mills are about to work away at [illegible] on the [illegible] mountain, occupying a site [illegible] we may be regarded as [illegible] of Columbia, living and [illegible] changing high.

Everything is lively, and the populace are jubilant at the brilliant prospects before them. [illegible] area of country as yet untouched by pick and shovel, from which [illegible] strikes may be anticipated. The miners are arriving, especially those stimulated by a desire to prospect and preempt for them[illegible] the [illegible] of their camp fires [illegible].

The weather has been delightful the past three weeks. Yesterday, however, we were necessitated to yield to a south easter, and burrow up. To day Sol assumed his former splendor, and spring [illegible].

OPPOSITION [illegible] STEAMERS.—A private letter from San Francisco says that a strong and well regulated Steamship company was formed in that city for the purpose of running a line of steamers regularly between San Francisco and Portland. The steamers are known to be suitable for the Oregon trade, and are noted for good speed and splendid passenger accommodation. The people of Oregon will have an opportunity of showing whether they are willing to patronize good and staunch steamers at a reasonable price for freight and passage, as it will depend on the patronage these steamers will receive whether they will remain in our waters or not.

While you think of opposition, remember that KOHN & FISHEL, No. 51 Front street, have the finest stock of Clothing and Dry Goods, and sell at very low prices.

WALTHAM WATCHES.

The extensive use of these watches for the last fifteen years by Railway Conductors, Engineers and Expressmen, the most exacting of watch wearers, has thoroughly demonstrated the strength, steadiness, durability and accuracy of the Waltham Watch. To satisfy that class in all these respects, is to decide the question as to the real value of these timekeepers.

The superior organization and great extent of the Company's Works at Waltham, enable them to produce watches, COMBINING THE BEST AND LATEST IMPROVEMENTS, and at a price which renders competition futile, and those who buy any other watch, merely pay from 25 to 50 per cent. more for their watches than is necessary.

For sale by all dealers.
